'Jury Tampering' Hinted; NMU Case Ends In Mistrial

MARQUETTE (AP)—The trial of six Northern Michigan University black students charged with creating a disturbance during a sit-in last December ended in a mistrial Monday.

LBJ Disliked Probe Of JFK Death, Report

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Columbia Broadcasting System interview with former President Lyndon B. Johnson deleted, at Johnson's request, a comment questioning the Warren Commission's theory that a single assassin killed President John F. Kennedy, the Washington Post reported today.

The Post said the deletion, made in the final scheduled installment of an interview with the former president, was requested by Johnson on grounds of national security. The telecast is to be aired Saturday night.

In New York, CBS declined comment on the Post report.

The newspaper quoted a CBS source who, it said, confirmed the former president expressed reservations about the commission's findings. The Post said the source refused to disclose the wording of the question put to Johnson and his answer.

The Post quoted Richard S. Salant, president of CBS news, as saying the deletions had been made.

But, the newspaper said, Salant and CBS executives declined to confirm or deny the deletions were comments concerning the assassination.

The Post quoted sources close to CBS as saying that Johnson, when asked by interviewer Walter Cronkite for his opinion of the commission's findings, replied that he has never been "absolutely" satisfied with the report.

Rap Brown Trial Will Continue

ELLICOTT CITY, Md. (AP)—Circuit Court Judge James Macgill has scheduled resumption of the arson-riot trial of H. Rap Brown for Monday after defense lawyers failed to have it transferred to U.S. District Court in Baltimore.

Judge Macgill had suspended Brown's trial last Monday when the defense certified it had petitioned for federal jurisdiction. That was the ninth delay in the proceedings.

Three judges of the 4th U.S. circuit Court of Appeals upheld Monday a U.S. District Court judge's opinion that there was no evidence Brown's civil rights would be impaired by trial on the state level. Macgill then set Monday as the date for resumption of the trial.

William M. Kunstler, chief defense lawyer, still could seek further delay from the Supreme Court.

agreed on a two-count stipulation—that members of the jury had been contacted by outsiders and that some news accounts of the Dec. 18 sit-in were inaccurate and misleading.

Charges Not Dropped
Prosecutor Edward A. Quinnell said following the verdict that the charges had not been dropped or dismissed, but he said prospects for a new trial are uncertain.

Defense attorney J. Kent Bourland of Hancock was scheduled to begin presentation of his case Monday, the sixth day of the trial, but instead the stipulation was presented to Judge Hill.

Court officials were reluctant to discuss the situation but it was learned that several members of the eight man jury had been contacted by unidentified persons during the trial. One juror reportedly received calls at home on two successive nights and a deputy was assigned to him.

Although details of the jury tampering were not disclosed, the stipulation included a statement that the impact, if any, on the jury of the outside contacts was "impossible to ascertain."

Following a conference in the judge's chambers last Friday, it was reported unofficially that an unidentified person had been questioned regarding the contacts with the jurors. When court resumed later Friday, two of the eight jurors were dismissed by Judge Hill without any explanation.

Rap News Coverage

The objections to news coverage of the sit-in and subsequent developments referred specifically to the use of the word "ransacked" in reference to reported damage to an NMU office during the 19-hour sit-in. The attorneys stipulated further that no mention had been made in the news stories of the participation in events leading to and surrounding the sit-in by the Human Rights Commission, an NMU organization.

The state's case had included testimony that Dr. Allan L. Niemi, NMU vice president of student affairs, had been held a prisoner in his office 45 minutes by the black demonstrators who were protesting disciplinary action handed out to another black student.

50-75 Take Part

Prosecution testimony had indicated about 50 to 75 of the university's 149 black students had taken part in the demonstration. NMU has 8,000 students.

The court in handing down the mistrial verdict made no mention of a request Friday by Bourland that the charges be dismissed because of insufficient evidence.

Defendants included Vernon Smalls of Marquette, David Williams of Detroit, Patrick Williams of Saginaw, Christopher Poole of Clarkston, Phillip Harper of Inkster and Loren Loban of New Rochelle, N.Y.

Negro Publisher Robbery Suspect, Hangs Himself

FLINT (AP)—The publisher of a weekly Negro newspaper in Kalamazoo was found hanged today in a cell at the Genesee County Jail in Flint.

Undersheriff Norman Harlan said Donald Phillips, 39, apparently hanged himself following his arrest Monday in connection with the $12,400 robbery of a Flint bank.

Phillips, publisher of the Kalamazoo Ledger, was jailed shortly after 8 p.m. Monday following his arrest outside a branch office of the Flint Citizens' Bank, Harlan said.

Phillips was a business associate of murdered Jackson Negro publisher Charles Cade, who was slain in his Jackson apartment last year. No one was charged in that slaying.

House Defeats Riot Measure

LANSING (AP)—Suburban Detroit-area legislators, taking their cue from daylong racial tension in River Rouge, tried to win passage in the Michigan House Monday night for a bill proposing a local riot act.

After more than two hours of debate the House shortly before midnight rejected by four votes a bill that would authorize local officials to:

- Declare a state of emergency and order a curfew.
- Ban sale of alcohol, gasoline, firearms and ammunition.
- Issue any other orders and rules "necessary to protect life and property or bring the emergency situation within the affected area under control."

The bill, introduced by Rep. Joyce Symons, D-Allen Park, and more than a dozen colleagues, proposed to extend the power on a county-wide level to a committee of the prosecuting attorney, sheriff and county board of supervisors chairman.

Under the bill, their emergency proclamations would expire after 48 hours unless extended by the governor.

The final vote on the measure was 52-37, with 56 needed to pass it.

Opposition to the bill was raised principally by black legislators from Detroit and a handful of white liberals.

Rioting Erupts In River Rouge; Schools Closed Indefinitely

Mayor Orders Curfew After Looting, Fires

RIVER ROUGE, Mich. (AP)—Racial feelings, fanned by weeks of black-white hostility, remained raw today in this industrial Detroit suburb, where a clash between black and white students led to rock-throwing, looting and the burning of three stores.

The high school, center of the tensions since February, was ordered closed until further notice by the school board.

7 Policemen Hurt
Seven law officers and an unknown number of civilians were injured. Two of the officers required hospital treatment.

A state of emergency—consisting of a 6 p.m. to 5 a.m. curfew—was ordered by Mayor John McEwan after a boxcar burst into flames on the Penn Central Railroad tracks near the school.

Gov. William Milliken told a news conference today that he was "satisfied it was handled in the best way possible."

Milliken said he was "aware there is some question" about the legality of mayoral emergency proclamations. He said he did not intend to issue a covering proclamation himself.

No Curfew Arrests

McEwan said no arrests were made for curfew violation. Traffic moved freely on Jefferson Avenue, the main street through the community, during the curfew hours.

The disorders started after black students held a grievance meeting in the high school gym. The meeting broke up when the school's principal tried to address it and some white students, apparently disgruntled with the meeting, walked out of school.

Blacks, Whites Fight
Fights ensued in the streets around the school. Groups of black and white students pelted each other, police and passing cars with rocks and bottles.

Most of the injuries occurred during the early rock throwing. As police reinforcements moved in from surrounding communities, bands of black youths set up barricades on Visgar Street, described as the central business street of the black communities of River Rouge and the adjacent suburb of Ecorse, and began looting stores.

Three stores were burned and several were thoroughly torn apart by looters, who threw some goods and fixtures into the littered street.

3 Stores Burned

At about 8 p.m., a force of about 300 policemen bolstered by about 60 State Police troopers began a sweep up the street. The heavily armed officers marched up the 13-block stretch dispersing the remnants of the crowd as they advanced.

By the time order was restored, seven policemen and an undetermined number of civilians were injured. The injured officers included Wayne County Undersheriff Loren Pittman, a former River Rouge police chief, who suffered a possible broken thumb and a suburban police lieutenant who was hospitalized with a broken cheek bone and an eye injury.

Dominated By Blacks

No figures on the evening arrests were immediately available, although four adults and six juveniles were arrested in the afternoon disturbances near the school.

River Rouge, a community of 18,147 dominated by the belching smokestacks of Detroit's downriver industrial complexes, has been racially tense for some time.

INVESTIGATION continues into the dynamiting of the Louisiana Senate Sunday night. Pictured above is some of the rubble being probed for clues to who did the bombing.

Senate Group Against Arms Aid To Cambodia

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee has made clear to the administration it opposes any U.S. arms aid to Cambodia despite that embattled nation's plea for enough military hardware to outfit a large army.

Against Assistance

"The committee was virtually in agreement and very firmly against sending assistance," said Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., after Secretary of State William P. Rogers briefed the panel behind closed doors Monday.

Agreeing with Fulbright, senior Republican committee member Sen. George Aiken of Vermont said he is sure "the President will take into consideration how this committee feels."

Fulbright and Aiken met with newsmen following the 2½-hour session with Rogers. The secretary left hurriedly saying he didn't have time to comment.

Large Army In View

Fulbright quoted Rogers as saying the Cambodians had made a "very large request for equipping a very large army," including rifles, trucks, half-tracks and airplanes—but not military personnel.

Fulbright said the administration apparently has made no decision on going beyond what it already has done.

Publicly, at least, this has been confined to approving South Vietnamese shipment of captured Soviet AK47 rifles and allowing armed forays into Cambodian territory by South Vietnamese soldiers.

Forget Answer

When asked whether the administration had considered air support for Cambodian troops and whether this would constitute aid, Fulbright said the question had been asked but that he "really couldn't remember" what Rogers answered. Neither could Aiken.

Fulbright said the administration apparently was not overly concerned about the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops roving Cambodia, but believed any substantial increase in their activity could threaten plans to continue winding down the Vietnam war.

Symington Leaves Session

Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., who left the session after about an hour, said the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops have been using Cambodia as a sanctuary since 1965, and he couldn't see "why such a big thing is being made of Cambodia."

"I just hope that it does not mean that somewhere back of the administration policy there is a hedge against 'Vietnamization,'" he added in reference to the President's stated aim of turning over the fighting to South Vietnam troops.

Weather

ESCANABA AND VICINITY—Variable cloudiness with chance of a few periods of thundershowers today with highs in the lower 70s. Mostly cloudy and mild with occasional showers or thundershowers tonight with lows in the lower 40s. Showers ending Wednesday and becoming partly cloudy and cooler with highs in the mid 50s. Winds south to southwest 10 to 20 mph today and tonight turning to southwest to west 15 to 25 mph Wednesday. Probabilities of precipitation: 40% today, 50% tonight and 50% Wednesday. Monday's high was 80 with a low reading of 55 recorded.

2 Economists Claim

Indicators Pointing To Inflation Curb

WASHINGTON (AP)—Economic indicators point to a sharp slowdown in inflation this fall, two top economists predict. They made their statements on a day the stock market suffered its worst slump in six years and other signs revealed a troubled economy.

In making this assessment in speeches to the United States Chamber of Commerce Monday, Walter W. Heller, former chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers under former President Johnson, and Beryl W. Sprinkel of Chicago supported Nixon administration contentions that the over-all price rise will slow sharply in the autumn.

But, as they spoke, other indications of a sagging economy caused concern in the business community.

In New York, the stock market's Dow Jones Industrial average fell 12.14 points to 735.15, the worst drop since Nov. 22, 1963, the day President John F. Kennedy was assassinated.

And, in Detroit, General Motors and Ford, the nation's largest automobile manufacturers, said that auto sales and profits were down in the opening quarter this year, although both still finished in the black. Ford reported its consolidated sales in the opening three months down by 5 per cent, while GM's sales fell by 14 per cent during the same period.

Special Discussion

At the White House, President Nixon conferred with his Council of Economic Advisers and five other economists called in for a special discussion of the nation's economic outlook.

Administration officials denied the talks were directly connected to the stock market slump. One informant said the discussion was scheduled some time ago and was "a general bull session—a kind of educational process for the President, to let him hear what others in the economic field are thinking."

Meantime a large bank in California announced it was reducing its prime interest rate from 8 per cent to 7½ per cent in a move it said was designed to boost the nation's economy.

Interest Rates Drop

Robert F. Parker, whose Community National Bank at Bakersfield, Calif., operates 17 branches in that state, said he hoped its action will trigger an other round of nationwide prime interest rate reductions. Six weeks ago the bank was the nation's second to drop its rate from 8½ per cent to 8 per cent.

"New car sales are off more than 20 per cent in the first quarter and so it goes in all the industry by which the strength of our economy is measured," Parker told a news conference.

At the Chamber of Commerce meeting in Washington, Heller, now a University of Minnesota professor, told the businessmen "enough slack has developed in the economy" to assure the over-all price rise will slow to about a 4 per cent rate at the end of the year.

Rate Increase Cited

Sprinkel, senior vice president and economic director of the Harris Trust and Savings Bank, forecast a 3 per cent rate of increase by year-end. The current rate is 5 per cent.

"I am not afflicted with the doom and gloom that seems to pervade Wall Street and the business community," Heller said.

He said the situation is ripe for Nixon to call publicly for restraint on prices and wages by industry and labor.

Former Resident Of Area Honored

MERRILL, Mich. — A former resident of Rock, Bark River and Escanaba who has served 30 years in the Merrill Community School was honored by the community Saturday for his dedication to education.

John Frenchette, a native of Rock, was the guest of honor at a testimonial dinner sponsored by a Merrill Citizens Committee. He plans to retire at the end of the school year.

Frenchette, who has been superintendent of the Merrill Community Schools for the past 19 years, came to the community 30 years ago from Harrisville High School where he had spent seven years as a teacher and then principal. During his five years as Harrisville principal, he doubled as Alcona County superintendent.

The Citizens Committee presented a "This Is Your Life" program on Frenchette, highlighted by the surprise arrival from St. Petersburg, Fla., of Frenchette's 86-year-old father, John B. Frenchette, and his only living sister, Helen Phillips of Kinder, La.

Frenchette was born in Rock and later moved to Bark River. When he was nine years old, his family moved to Escanaba, where he lived until he began teaching in Harrisville. He became superintendent of the Merrill Community Schools in 1951.

Frenchette and his wife, Marion, have two children, Peggy, who is teaching in Avondale School near Pontiac, and Brenda, a junior at Kingswood School-Cranbrook.

During his tenure at Merrill, the district built its present high school and added seven elementary rooms. In 1951, the district had 400 students and a budget of $60,000. The system now has 1,200 students and a budget of over $800,000.

According to Mrs. Alverta Haag, a Merrill teacher for 15 years, Frenchette's main purpose in education was to benefit the child.

"He was unafraid of hard work, anxious to cooperate with his faculty and community and prompt and dependable at all times."

The Frenchettes will reside at their home in Harrisville.

Highway Plan

The annual report of the Michigan Highway Commission was distributed last week, about the same time as details on a proposed $1.6 billion construction proposal for the 1970s were made public for the first time by Panax Newspapers.

And although the annual report deals largely with accomplishments in Michigan during the last year and in the past decade while the construction proposal is futuristic, there are some parallels in both documents.

In the 1960s, the annual report points out, "Michigan built nearly 1,000 miles of freeway across the length and breadth of the state. That's an average of one mile every three to four days."

At the same time, however, replacement or improvement of highways not on that freeway network (the ABC system) are well behind the needs, the report continues. "Since Congress intended that the Interstate system be completed as quickly as possible, 90 per cent of the costs are reimbursed by the federal government. Other federal-aid highways, not tied to a federal timetable, receive 50-50 matching money, which amounts to about only one fourth of the Interstate appropriations."

The shortages in Michigan's non-Interstate trunkline system, many of which are only too evident in the Upper Peninsula, are recognized in the new construction program which was unveiled by Charles H. Hewitt, chairman of the commission, and Henrik E. Stafseth, director. Key factor of course is money.

To finance the proposed construction in the 1970s, Stafseth recommends among other things a one cent per gallon increase in the tax on gasoline and two cents per gallon increase in the diesel fuel tax — a suggestion that already is finding opposition in the legislature. But unless there is some additional revenue, apparently many of the highway needs are going to have to wait.

The annual report makes that abundantly clear.

Improvements and maintenance of the state's highway system will have to be "commensurate with the funds available," the report says. "The extent to which Michigan will be able to meet its highway needs depends on many factors, mostly involving money."

To that question, it's unfortunate that Michigan did not apply itself 10 years ago. The state has been one of the most progressive in the nation in Interstate freeway construction, completing nearly 80 per cent of the programmed mileage. But while the ribbons of four-lane concrete — and there is no intent to minimize their importance or criticize their construction — spread across the state, many roads in the non-freeway system were allowed to deteriorate to the point where it's going to cost a bundle of cash to bring them up to the condition required today and in the future.

Stafseth's program projects $1.6 billion.

If it takes a tax increase on motor vehicle fuels to finance the program, then the legislature might well get about the job.

The annual report indicates that the largest chunks of Michigan's highway dollar will continue to go toward completion of the Interstate system and although the system is 80 per cent completed some of the most expensive mileage — through the urban areas — remains to be constructed. The Interstate system is a bargain with 90 per cent of the costs paid by the federal government and to delay it would only push the final price even higher. At the same time, Michigan's other road needs must be given greater consideration than they received during the initial stages of Interstate construction.

The $1.6 billion program, which includes an east-west freeway in the Upper Peninsula not a part of the Interstate system, provides for meeting some of those needs. It is up to the Legislature to come up with the dollars to pay for it.

Staying Small

The tendency in recent years has been for many private colleges to become enamored with bigness. In the process, many have gone the route of accepting government and foundation money and have been drawn into the web of educational standardization and conformity.

It is refreshing, therefore, to hear of a small college that is standing against this trend — and doing so successfully.

Such an institution is Wabash College at Crawfordsville, Ind., whose president, Dr. Thaddeus Seymour, has stated a policy that departs from the response of most colleges to present-day pressures.

"More than ever before in our history," says Dr. Seymour, "a college like ours will be needed in the coming decade, and our best response to the future will be to remain a stable, relatively conservative institution, resolute in purpose in the face of the headlong change which is all around us."

Preserving Wabash as a small college, says Dr. Seymour, will require ingenuity and hard work, including the "laborious raising of funds."

But the task is worth it, he believes. In terms of Wabash remaining independent and free of government control, "Wabash has always steered an independent course," Dr. Seymour explains. "Today we can see the wisdom of this policy as private institutions become increasingly dependent on public funds and thereby subject to regulation. . . I am proud that we have stood on our own feet, refusing to trade private independence for public dollars."

The result of this independence at Wabash is an educational balance that exists on few publicly subsidized campuses. Unlike so many institutions that tilt to the left and offer a dreary ideological diet, the faculty at Wabash is drawn from almost all points in the political spectrum. It includes, in addition to the usual advocates of collectivism, professors who believe in limited government, free market economics, and private property.

Many private small colleges have yielded to the pressure of numbers and, relying on public funds for expansion, lost their identity. Wabash is one college that is showing it need not be so.

I AM CURIOUS—

World Has Designs On Its Own Suicide

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

I don't think we're going to have to worry very much about the population explosion. The human race seems to be going collectively crazy, and soon large numbers of humorless people will have deprived themselves of the opportunity of making a living.

The craze for self-elimination has even struck New York's Chinatown, where some of the newly arrived Chinese—at least one assumes they are new to the area—have been putting up signs, "We are not a zoo. Keep the tourist buses out."

Now this is a strange thing in a world that depends on cultural interchange for much of its bread and butter. If western tourists lost interest in eastern cultures, we would be deprived of some of the best cuisines in the world.

Does the proprietor of a Chinese restaurant, specializing in Cantonese or Szechuan delicacies, consider himself to be a zoo keeper? Does his chef think of himself as an elephant in a cage?

No, they are just people intent on making a living by giving pleasure to other people. If Chinatown in New York—or in San Francisco—were closed to tourists, considerable understanding would go out of our life. And a whole ethnic group would be reduced to living on a dole.

The Chinatown business is symptomatic. Tourists who go to the West Indies, with nothing more malevolent in mind than getting a bit of sun-tan and snorkeling amid the fish, come home with stories about the resentment they encounter from local populations.

A friend who edits a paper on the island of St. Croix tells me it is not the native blacks who stir up animosity against the tourists; the older natives are predisposed to like visitors, for the tourist trade gives a dramatic fillip to the local standard of living. According to my editor friend, it is young blacks who have returned from the continental United States that have been dripping ideological poison into the ears of their seniors.

The net effect, if things go far enough, would be to turn the Caribbean Islands into a vast poorhouse.

The prime minister of the Bahamas Islands, Lynden Pindling, has begun to sense the idiocy of biting the tourist's hands that do so much to take local populations off the roots-and-berries standard. He has dared the wrath of his inverse racists by advising the hotel and resort help to be a bit more courteous than they have been in recent years.

The senselessness of pushing ideological fights to violent extremes is no better illustrated than when the Afro-Asian bloc in the UN calls for economic boycott and military sanctions against Rhodesia and South Africa.

Apartheid is an ugly thing, admittedly, and I, for one, don't want to live in a segregated society. Nevertheless, the violent overthrow of the white rulers in Rhodesia and South Africa, far from expanding the area of human freedom, would only serve to create a terrifying amount of black misery.

Nathaniel Weyl, in an excellent book called "Traitors' End," which tells about the rise and fall of the Communist movement in South Africa, observes that the per capita income of the black states between the Sahara desert and the Zambesi River is $83 a year as against $259 for the average South African Bantu.

And the Rhodesian Bantu earns about twice as much as his brother in the black African nations.

Because of the economic factor, blacks from north of the Zambesi struggle to slip into the nations that discriminate socially against them. This is no argument for discrimination. It is a warning, however, that "men who vote with their feet" to make a living have nothing to gain from the violent overturn of institutions. The evolutionary approach to change is the only approach that offers a guarantee against self-inflicted genocide.

The idiosyncrasy that afflicts us is not only ethnic in origin. Up in the Naugatuck Valley in Connecticut the footwear business has been struggling to hang on in a severely competitive world.

One company, oppressed by its inability to make profits from its local operation, gave the union leaders in its plant an accurate estimate of the situation. The company said it would have to phase out its Connecticut manufacturing business if the union would not accept a wage scale geared to the limitations of the market.

Whereupon the workers took a vote and turned the company down in its request. Result: practically a whole town will go on the dole when the footwear plant closes its doors.

Suicide, suicide. All over the world people are cutting their own throats. The pill, the Pope may be glad to know, may become unnecessary.

Top Letter Writing Not Part Of Present

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Curbstone comments by a pavement Plato: However this chaotic age is remembered in the future, it won't be recalled as a period of great letter writing.

It has neither the leisureed grace nor mellow philosophy—or even the passionate desire to communicate one's thoughts—that stimulates the creation of great letters.

Folks today aren't so much interested in telling each other what they think as they are what they heard on a television talk show the night before.

Ah, for the shades of the great letter writers of yesterday—Lady Mary Wortley Montagu, Dean Swift, Lord Chesterfield, John Keats, Lord Byron, Benjamin Franklin and Thomas Jefferson, to name but a few.

Unable to pick up a telephone and exchange their opinions and ideas offhand, they sat down, took a sharpened quill in hand, dipped it in an inkwell and by labor of mind and gift of wit turned out long letters that are part of the endless glory of the English tongue.

Their letters took time to write and a much longer time to reach their recipient—days, weeks, even months—but they said something not only to him but to all mankind.

It is getting harder every year for anyone to achieve lasting fame as a letter writer even though he sets out deliberately to do so. There are other factors to blame besides the more practical efficiency of the telephone, the telegraph and the office dictating machines—plus the time-wasting allure of television.

Who will take the trouble to write a clever letter to a giant corporation when he knows it will be read only by a tired white collar office underling and answered by a bored computer? Even George Bernard Shaw couldn't win a literary duel with a pompous computer.

Here's another problem: Suppose poet John Doakes, disturbed by the predicaments

and paroxysms of civilization, indites a masterful letter to his friend, poet James Doe.

"Rosebud," says Doe, turning to his wife. "This letter from Doakes is too good to be lost. It is our duty to save it for posterity."

"Oh, no, we don't," replies Rosebud. "There isn't room in this apartment for anymore junk. We don't even have space to save our income tax returns."

And into the wastebasket goes Doakes' masterpiece.

Yes, the tradition of great letter writing appears headed for the same oblivion of the goose quill and lamp that spawned it.

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Robert Boyd, a native of Benton Harbor, Mich. and formerly with the Detroit Free Press, has arrived in North Vietnam for a tour which is expected to take about two weeks. Boyd, chief of the Washington bureau for Knight Newspapers, Inc., is the first Western newsman known to be admitted to North Vietnam since February.

LONDON MOSQUE

LONDON (AP)—Sir Frederick Gibberd, the London architect who designed Liverpool's new Roman Catholic cathedral, will next try his hand at a mosque. His design for a new center of worship for London's Moslems has been selected in open competition from 52 entries, 41 of them outside Britain. Gibberd's plan for the 750,000 pounds ($1.8 million) building involves a two-story congregation hall with a 75-foot high dome and a 150-foot high minaret rising from a pool. The site is the northwest corner of Regent's Park, an area famed for the stately terraced houses of the Regency architect, Nash. "I think this is just what Nash would have liked," says Gibberd, head of his mosque.

Opening lead—jack of spades. It is customary to lead fourth best on both the opening lead and during the later play, but, as with all general rules, there are exceptions.

Thus, no one would dream of opening the fourth best spade from the West hand in this deal. The rule of leading the top of a three-card sequence takes precedence over the fourth-best rule.

But which card should East return after winning the spade opening with the king? Obviously he must attack clubs, but the question is which club he should lead. In the actual case East returned his fourth best club, the deuce, and West won declarer's king with the ace. West fell from grace when he returned the jack of clubs, and declarer wound up making ten tricks after drawing trumps and losing a diamond finesse to East's king. Had West returned the four of clubs instead of the jack, South would have gone down if he elected to play the eight from dummy instead of the ten.

Certainly West's club return was incorrect because it handed declarer the contract on a platter, but actually East was the chief offender on the hand.

East should have returned the nine of clubs at trick two instead of the deuce. It was far more important to inform partner that the nine was his highest club than it was for East to tell partner by leading the deuce that he had four clubs.

Had East returned the nine, the contract would have been defeated with perfectly normal defense. West would duck declarer's king, knowing that South had the K-Q.

Eventually declarer would take a diamond finesse. East would win with the king and return a club, thus permitting West's A-J to gobble up South's Q-6 to the tune of down one.

Ann Landers

Time On Your Side, Widower, 67, Told

Dear Ann Landers: I lost my wife 18 months ago. I hope you won't think I am bragging, but I am currently involved with five women which is more than I can handle. I am 67 years old.

I enjoy female companionship, but I do not want to get married. Three of these women talk marriage constantly. They don't need my money. They have more money than I. One of the women has never been married and says she has no desire to be. The other woman has been legally separated from her husband for ten years.

I like all these ladies but I don't have the energy. How can I get rid of two or three without hurting anybody's feelings?—Overset

Dear Overset: Time will solve your problem, Dad. The "three" ladies will be eliminated when you become completely exhausted. You will drop them. Next you will cancel out the dolly who is legally separated. My bet is you'll marry the lady who says she has no desire to marry.

Dear Ann Landers: Parents keep saying, "I wish the kids would listen to Ann Landers." Well, here's a letter from a former kid who wishes the parents would listen to Ann Landers. Especially when you tell them, "Be firm and consistent, but don't beat on your children and expect them to blindly follow your advice. If you don't approve of the boy your daughter is going with, let her know it, but don't knock the guy too hard for too long or she might hang on just to prove she has a mind of her own."

When I was 16 I went with a guy my folks hated. The more they talked against him, the more determined I was to keep seeing him. Instead of breaking us up, my parents brought us closer together. Too close. When I announced I was four months pregnant they had to let us get married. It was the saddest wedding on record. Everybody cried. I knew he didn't want to marry me and I didn't want to marry him. But I had to prove to my folks I could run my own life.

Well, I ran it all right—straight into the ground. Our marriage was one big hassle over money, sex, relatives—everything it was possible to fight about. I was just about to get a divorce when I became pregnant again. Now, after six years of misery, and two kids, we are finally splitting up.

I'm sure if my folks had listened to Ann Landers and let me alone, I would have broken up with the rat on my own. You're not as square and out of it as some people think. Hang in there, Ann. You're OK for an old dame.

Dear Fan: Damned by faint praise—but thanks. The faint praise is better than no praise at all.

Dear Ann Landers: A niece (by marriage) moved to this city recently. We are nearly the same age. (Three years difference.) She calls me Aunt Harriet.

I wish she would drop the aunt. Because of the closeness in our age people keep asking me to explain the relationship. I am sick of going into it. (She is the daughter of my deceased husband's sister and I can't see that it's worth explaining.)

I've asked her twice to call me Harriet but she is nearly 80 and doesn't hear well. What should I do?—Edna
Dear Edna: Talk louder.

"The Bride's Guide," Ann Landers' booklet, answers some of the most frequently asked questions about weddings. To receive your copy of this comprehensive guide, write to Ann Landers, in care of your newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35c in coin.

Every 'Invader' Dead Or Caught, Castro Claims

MIAMI (AP) — Radio Havana said today that Cuba had destroyed 13-man invasion force with every man killed or captured 10 days after the guerrillas landed.

The broadcast by Fidel Castro's official voice did not say how many of the guerrillas were killed and how many were still alive, but reported: "Not one escaped" and all the arms, the bullets and the equipment were seized.

None of the officials of Alpha 66, a militantly anti-Castro exile group in Miami which said last week it had landed a guerrilla force in Cuba, was available for comment.

Castro first announced April 19 that an invasion force had landed on his island. In a communique over his own signature — an unusual move — the bearded prime minister said the landing party was composed of mercenaries who came to Cuba from the United States and were armed with guns of the "Yankee Army."

Highway Plan

The annual report of the Michigan Highway Commission was distributed last week, about the same time as details on a proposed $1.6 billion construction proposal for the 1970s were made public for the first time by Panax Newspapers.

And although the annual report deals largely with accomplishments in Michigan during the last year and in the past decade while the construction proposal is futuristic, there are some parallels in both documents.

In the 1960s, the annual report points out, "Michigan built nearly 1,000 miles of freeway across the length and breadth of the state. That's an average of one mile every three to four days."

At the same time, however, replacement or improvement of highways not on that freeway network (the ABC system) are well behind the needs, the report continues. "Since Congress intended that the Interstate system be completed as quickly as possible, 90 per cent of the costs are reimbursed by the federal government. Other federal-aid highways, not tied to a federal timetable, receive 50-50 matching money, which amounts to about only one fourth of the Interstate appropriations."

The shortages in Michigan's non-Interstate trunkline system, many of which are only too evident in the Upper Peninsula, are recognized in the new construction program which was unveiled by Charles H. Hewitt, chairman of the commission, and Henrik E. Stafseth, director. Key factor of course is money.

To finance the proposed construction in the 1970s, Stafseth recommends among other things a one cent per gallon increase in the tax on gasoline and two cents per gallon increase in the diesel fuel tax — a suggestion that already is finding opposition in the legislature. But unless there is some additional revenue, apparently many of the highway needs are going to have to wait.

The annual report makes that abundantly clear.

Improvements and maintenance of the state's highway system will have to be "commensurate with the funds available," the report says. "The extent to which Michigan will be able to meet its highway needs depends on many factors, mostly involving money."

To that question, it's unfortunate that Michigan did not apply itself 10 years ago. The state has been one of the most progressive in the nation in Interstate freeway construction, completing nearly 80 per cent of the programmed mileage. But while the ribbons of four-lane concrete — and there is no intent to minimize their importance or criticize their construction — spread across the state, many roads in the non-freeway system were allowed to deteriorate to the point where it's going to cost a bundle of cash to bring them up to the condition required today and in the future.

Stafseth's program projects $1.6 billion.

If it takes a tax increase on motor vehicle fuels to finance the program, then the legislature might well get about the job.

The annual report indicates that the largest chunks of Michigan's highway dollar will continue to go toward completion of the Interstate system and although the system is 80 per cent completed some of the most expensive mileage — through the urban areas — remains to be constructed. The Interstate system is a bargain with 90 per cent of the costs paid by the federal government and to delay it would only push the final price even higher. At the same time, Michigan's other road needs must be given greater consideration than they received during the initial stages of Interstate construction.

The $1.6 billion program, which includes an east-west freeway in the Upper Peninsula not a part of the Interstate system, provides for meeting some of those needs. It is up to the Legislature to come up with the dollars to pay for it.

Staying Small

The tendency in recent years has been for many private colleges to become enamored with bigness. In the process, many have gone the route of accepting government and foundation money and have been drawn into the web of educational standardization and conformity.

It is refreshing, therefore, to hear of a small college that is standing against this trend — and doing so successfully.

Such an institution is Wabash College at Crawfordsville, Ind., whose president, Dr. Thaddeus Seymour, has stated a policy that departs from the response of most colleges to present-day pressures.

"More than ever before in our history," says Dr. Seymour, "a college like ours will be needed in the coming decade, and our best response to the future will be to remain a stable, relatively conservative institution, resolute in purpose in the face of the headlong change which is all around us."

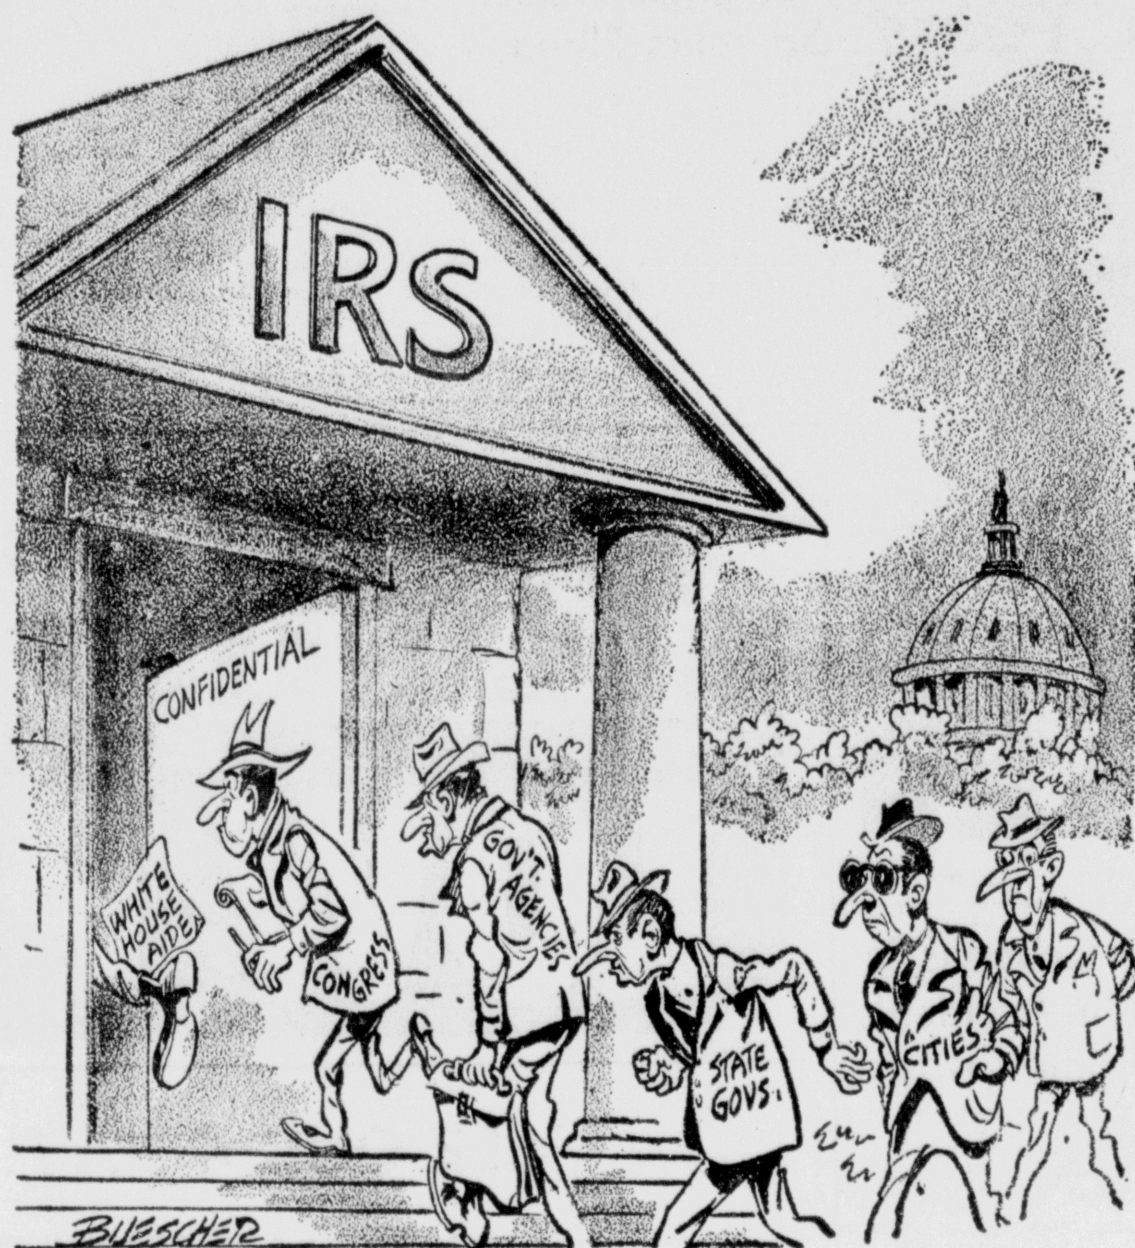

Preserving Wabash as a small college, says Dr. Seymour, will require ingenuity and hard work, including the "laborious raising of funds."

But the task is worth it, he believes, in terms of Wabash remaining independent and free of government control. "Wabash has always steered an independent course," Dr. Seymour explains. "Today we can see the wisdom of this policy as private institutions become increasingly dependent on public funds and thereby subject to regulation... I am proud that we have stood on our own feet, refusing to trade private independence for public dollars."

The result of this independence at Wabash is an educational balance that exists on few publicly subsidized campuses. Unlike so many institutions that tilt to the left and offer a dreary ideological diet, the faculty at Wabash is drawn from almost all points in the political spectrum. It includes, in addition to the usual advocates of collectivism, professors who believe in limited government, free market economics, and private property.

Many private small colleges have yielded to the pressure of numbers and, relying on public funds for expansion, lost their identity. Wabash is one college that is showing it need not be so.

I AM CURIOUS—

World Has Designs On Its Own Suicide

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

I don't think we're going to have to worry very much about the population explosion. The human race seems to be going collectively crazy, and soon large numbers of humorless people will have deprived themselves of the opportunity of making a living.

The craze for self-elimination has even struck New York's Chinatown, where some of the newly arrived Chinese—at least one assumes they are new to the area—have been putting up signs, "We are not a zoo. Keep the tourist buses out."

Now this is a strange thing in a world that depends on cultural interchange for much of its bread and butter. If western tourists lost interest in eastern cultures, we would be deprived of some of the best cuisines in the world. Does the proprietor of a Chinese restaurant, specializing in Cantonese or Szechuan delicacies, consider himself to be a zoo keeper? Does his chef think of himself as an elephant in a cage?

No, they are just people intent on making a living by giving pleasure to other people. If Chinatown in New York—or in San Francisco—were closed to tourists, considerable understanding would go out of our life. And a whole ethnic group would be reduced to living on a dime.

The Chinatown business is symptomatic. Tourists who go to the West Indies, with nothing more malevolent in mind than getting a bit of sun-tan and snorkeling amid the fish, come home with stories about the resentment they encounter from local populations.

A friend who edits a paper on the island of St. Croix tells me it is not the native blacks who stir up animus against the tourists; the older natives are predisposed to like visitors, for the tourist trade gives a dramatic fillip to the local standard of living. According to my editor friend, it is young blacks who have returned from the continental United States that have been dripping ideological poison into the ears of their seniors.

The net effect, if things go far enough, would be to turn the Caribbean Islands into a vast pothole.

The prime minister of the Bahama Islands, Lynden Pindling, has begun to sense the idiocy of biting the tourist's hands that do so much to take local populations off the roots-and-berries standard. He has dared the wrath of his inverse racists by advising the hotel and resort help to be a bit more courteous than they have been in recent years.

The senselessness of pushing ideological fights to violent extremes is no better illustrated than when the Afro-Asian bloc in the UN calls for economic boycott and military sanctions against Rhodesia and South Africa.

Apartheid is an ugly thing, admittedly, and I, for one, don't want to live in a segregated society. Nevertheless, the violent overthrow of the white rulers in Rhodesia and South Africa, far from expanding the area of human freedom, would only serve to create a terrifying amount of black misery.

Nathaniel Weyl, in an excellent book called "Traitors' End," which tells about the rise and fall of the Communist movement in South Africa, observes that the per capita income of the black states between the Sahara desert and the Zambezi River is $83 a year as against $259 for the average South African Bantu. And the Rhodesian Bantu earns about twice as much as his brother in the black African nations.

Because of the economic factor, blacks from north of the Zambezi struggle to slip into the nations that discriminate socially against them. This is no argument for discrimination. It is a warning, however, that "men who vote with their feet" to make a living have nothing to gain from the violent overturn of institutions. The evolutionary approach to change is the only approach that offers a guarantee against self-inflicted genocide.

The idiocy that afflicts us is not only ethnic in origin. Up in the Naugatuck Valley in Connecticut the footwear business has been struggling to hang on in a severely competitive world.

One company, oppressed with its inability to make profits from its local operation, gave the union leaders in its plant an accurate estimate of the situation. The company said it would have to phase out its Connecticut manufacturing business if the union would not accept a wage scale geared to the limitations of the market.

Whereupon the workers took a vote and turned the company down in its request. Result: practically a whole town will go on the dole when the footwear plant closes its doors.

Suicide, suicide. All over the world people are cutting their own throats. The pill, the Pope may be glad to know, may become unnecessary.

Top Letter Writing Not Part Of Present

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Curbsome comments by a pavement Plato:

However this chaotic age is remembered in the future, it won't be recalled as a period of great letter writing.

It has neither the leisureed grace nor mellow philosophy—or even the passionate desire to communicate one's thoughts—that stimulates the creation of great letters.

Folks today aren't so much interested in telling each other what they think as they are what they heard on a television talk show the night before.

Ah, for the shades of the great letter writers of yesterday—Lady Mary Wortley Montagu, Dean Swift, Lord Chesterfield, John Keats, Lord Byron, Benjamin Franklin and Thomas Jefferson, to name but a few.

Unable to pick up a telephone and exchange their opinions and ideas offhand, they sat down, took a sharpened quill in hand, dipped it in an inkwell and by labor of mind and gift of wit turned out long letters that are part of the endless glory of the English tongue.

Their letters took time to write and a much longer time to reach their recipient—days, weeks, even months—but they said something not only to him but to all mankind.

It is getting harder every year for anyone to achieve lasting fame as a letter writer even though he sets out deliberately to do so. There are other factors to blame besides the more practical efficiency of the telephone, the telegraph and the office dictating machines—plus the time-wasting allure of television.

Who will take the trouble to write a clever letter to a giant corporation when he knows it will be read only by a tired white collar office underling and answered by a bored computer? Even George Bernard Shaw couldn't win a literary duel with a pompous computer.

Here's another problem: Suppose poet John Doakes, disturbed by the predicaments

and paroxysms of civilization, indites a masterful letter to his friend, poet James Doe.

"Rosebud," says Doe, turning to his wife. "This letter from Doakes is too good to be lost. It is our duty to save it for posterity."

"Oh, no, we don't," replies Rosebud. "There isn't room in this apartment for anymore junk. We don't even have space to save our income tax returns."

And into the wastebasket goes Doakes' masterpiece. Yes, the tradition of great letter writing appears headed for the same oblivion of the goose quill and lamp that spawned it.

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Robert Boyd, a native of Benton Harbor, Mich. and formerly with the Detroit Free Press, has arrived in North Vietnam for a tour which is expected to take about two weeks. Boyd, chief of the Washington bureau for Knight Newspapers, Inc., is the first Western newsmen known to be admitted to North Vietnam since February.

LONDON MOSQUE

LONDON (AP)—Sir Frederick Gibberd, the London architect who designed Liverpool's new Roman Catholic cathedral, will next try his hand at a mosque. His design for a new center of worship for London's Moslems has been selected in open competition from 52 entries, 41 of them outside Britain. Gibberd's plan for the 750,000 pounds ($1.8 million) building involves a two-story congregation hall with a 75-foot high dome and a 150-foot high minaret rising from a pool. The site is the northwest corner of Regent's Park, an area famed for the stately terraced houses of the Regency architect, Nash. "I think this is just what Nash would have liked," says Gibberd of his mosque.

Opening lead—jack of spades. It is customary to lead fourth best on both the opening lead and during the later play, but, as with all general rules, there are exceptions.

Thus, no one would dream of opening the fourth best spade from the West hand in this deal. The rule of leading the top of a three-card sequence takes precedence over the fourth-best rule.

But which card should East return after winning the spade opening with the king? Obviously he must attack clubs, but the question is which club he should lead. In the actual case East returned his fourth best club, the deuce, and West won declarer's king with the ace.

West fell from grace when he returned the jack of clubs, and declarer wound up making ten tricks after drawing trumps and losing a diamond finesse to East's king. Had West returned the four of clubs instead of the jack, South would have gone down if he elected to play the eight from dummy instead of the ten.

Certainly West's club return was incorrect because it handed declarer the contract on a platter, but actually East was the chief offender on the hand.

East should have returned the nine of clubs at trick two instead of the deuce. It was far more important to inform partner that the nine was his highest club than it was for East to tell partner by leading the deuce that he had four clubs.

Had East returned the nine, the contract would have been defeated with perfectly normal defense. West would duck declarer's king, knowing that South had the K-Q.

Eventually declarer would take a diamond finesse. East would win with the king and return a club, thus permitting West's A-J to gobble up South's Q-6 to the tune of down one.

Ann Landers

Time On Your Side, Widower, 67, Told

Dear Ann Landers: I lost my wife 18 months ago. I hope you won't think I am bragging, but I am currently involved with five women which is more than I can handle. I am 67 years old.

I enjoy female companionship, but I do not want to get married. Three of these women talk marriage constantly. They don't need my money. They have more money than I. One of the women has never been married and says she has no desire to be. The other woman has been legally separated from her husband for ten years.

I like all these ladies but I don't have the energy. How can I get rid of two or three without hurting anybody's feelings?—Overset

Dear Overset: Time will solve your problem, Dad. The ladies you mentioned will be eliminated when you become exhausted. You will drop them. Next you will cancel out the dolly who is legally separated. My bet is you'll marry the lady who says she has no desire to marry.

Dear Ann Landers: Parents keep saying, "I wish the kids would listen to Ann Landers." Well, here's a letter from a former kid who wishes the parents would listen to Ann Landers. Especially when you tell them, "Be firm and consistent, but don't beat on your children and expect them to blindly follow your advice. If you don't approve of the boy your daughter is going with, let her know it, but don't knock the guy too hard for too long or she might hang on just to prove she has a mind of her own."

When I was 16 I went with a guy my folks hated. The more they talked against him, the more determined I was to keep seeing him. Instead of breaking us up, my parents brought us closer together. Too close. When I announced I was four months pregnant they had to let us get married. It was the saddest wedding on record. Everybody cried. I knew he didn't want to marry me and I didn't want to marry him. But I had to prove to my folks I could run my own life.

Well, I ran it all right—straight into the ground. Our marriage was one big hassle over money, sex, relatives—everything it was possible to fight about. I was just about to get a divorce when I became pregnant again. Now, after six years of misery, and two kids, we are finally splitting up.

I'm sure if my folks had listened to Ann Landers and let me alone, I would have broken up with the rat on my own. You're not as square and out of it as some people think. Hang in there, Ann. You're OK for an old dame.

Dear Fan: Damned by faint praise—but thanks. The faint praise is better than no praise at all.

Dear Ann Landers: A niece (by marriage) moved to this city recently. We are nearly the same age. (Three years difference.) She calls me Aunt Harriet.

I wish she would drop the aunt. Because of the closeness in our age people keep asking me to explain the relationship. I am sick of going into it. (She is the daughter of my deceased husband's sister and I can't see that it's worth explaining.)

I've asked her twice to call me Harriet but she is nearly 80 and doesn't hear well. What should I do?—Edna

Dear Edna: Talk louder.

Every 'Invader' Dead Or Caught, Castro Claims

MIAMI (AP) — Radio Havana said today that Cuba had destroyed a 13-man invasion force with every man killed or captured 10 days after the guerrillas landed.

The broadcast by Fidel Castro's official voice did not say how many of the guerrillas were killed and how many were still alive, but reported: "Not one escaped" and all the arms, the bullets and the equipment were seized.

None of the officials of Alpha 66, a militantly anti-Castro exile group in Miami which said last week it had landed a guerrilla force in Cuba, was available for comment.

Castro first announced April 19 that an invasion force had landed on his island. In a communique over his own signature — an unusual move — the bearded prime minister said the landing party was composed of mercenaries who came to Cuba from the United States and were armed with guns of the "Yankee Army."

Motel Owners Protest Highway Exit Design

The proposed north entrance from the new Gladstone to Rapid River freeway to the Gladstone resort area was contested by several motel owners at the City Commission meeting in the City Hall Monday night.

Mayor Pro Tem Douglas Bavin presided at the meeting in the absence of Mayor Raymond Norton.

The proposed exit plan shows a right angle turnoff in the vicinity of the Industrial Park to reach the motel area at north Gladstone and Kipling, while the south entrance is a slanted ramp.

Walter Lindberg, owner of Lindberg's Cabins, said the motel owners specifically requested a similar ramp design when they discussed the proposed highway with the State Highway Dept. He said tourists refuse to turn off a highway under right angle conditions.

Lindberg also said that after making the 90-degree turn off the highway, another 120 degree turn must be negotiated before a motorist could reach the area.

To Contact Department
The Commission asked the city manager to contact the Highway Dept. and request a change in the plan.

Bids for the four-lane highway connecting Gladstone with Rapid River are scheduled to be let in June. The State Highway Commission announced earlier this spring that the project had been accelerated in highway construction planning.

Urban Renewal Advances

There was immediate indication whether or not the objections raised would delay the project.

Resolutions authorizing Williams & Works, Inc., engineers, to proceed with applications for a workable urban renewal plan and secondary sewage treatment plant for Gladstone were approved by the Commission. The planning grant for urban renewal is not to exceed $2,000 and application will be made immediately to the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Application for the grant does not bind the city to complete an urban renewal program, the commission pointed out. The revised report on secondary sewage treatment prepared by Williams & Works will be submitted to the State Health Dept. and the commission voted that appropriate action be taken to move ahead with the required treatment plant at once.

Bid Accepted

The low bid of Northern Motor Co. of Escanaba for a half-ton pickup truck at a cost of $2,519 was accepted. Five bids were received. Sahara Coal Co. of Chicago submitted the only bid to supply coal for the power plant at a cost of $9.87 per ton (FOB Gladstone). The bid was accepted. One boat load of 10,000 tons will be ordered now and City Manager Howard Keeton was asked to determine if another boatload could be stored at the dock since a price increase is anticipated by Oct. 1.

In other business, the Commission requested the house at 415 Wisconsin Ave., considered to be in a dangerous condition, be removed and the site cleared by Aug. 1; accepted a petition for paving 6th St. from Wisconsin Ave. to Montana Ave. and recommended it be placed in the city work schedule; approved the return of retirement funds paid by Martin Goodwill, who is no longer employed by the city; set a public hearing for May 11 on the city budget, and authorized the purchase of $800 in fireworks for the July 4 celebration.

Rates Discussed
A public hearing also will be held May 11 on the abandoned vehicle ordinance prepared by the city attorney.

Docking rates at the boat harbor were discussed and a public hearing will be held May 11 after members of the commission and the harbor committee establish rates more compatible with the state rates.

The State Highway Dept. again has requested rental space in the basement of the City Hall. Senior citizens have been using the area as a meeting place and the commission authorized the city manager to find suitable accommodations for the senior citizens and to rent the available space at $60 per month for about two years to the department.

244 Children Enter Rodeo

Attendance at the second annual Bicycle Rodeo was down Saturday, but two local children were very happy when they received new bicycles after completing the safety requirements.

Chris Cannon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cannon, and Scott Wigger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Wigger, both received new bicycles. Scott was particularly pleased since his bicycle had been stolen last year and had not been replaced.

Only 244 youngsters took the safety tests on Saturday compared with 425 during the first rodeo last spring.

The safety program was sponsored by the Gladstone P.T.A. and the All Saints Home and School Association under the chairmanship of Mrs. Samuel Hoyt. Many service organizations assisted with the registration, safety check and minor repair, testing and the actual rodeo.

Wilt, Lakers Upend Knicks

NEW YORK (AP) — Wilt Chamberlain spent the day at the movies ... and the New York Knicks paid for it later.

Chamberlain studied films of last Friday night's loss to New York, then adjusted his style accordingly to lead Los Angeles over the Knicks 105-103 in the National Basketball Association playoffs Monday night.

Series Tied
The title-hungry Lakers thus tied at 1-1 the best-of-8 championship series which resumes in Los Angeles with games three and four Wednesday and Friday nights.

"I watched movies of the first game ... and I wasn't too proud of my performance," said the gimpy-kneed Chamberlain, who let Reed slip by for 37 points as the Knicks grabbed the opener 124-112.

It was different Monday night as Chamberlain turned into an animated horror show for Reed. The king-size Los Angeles center, despite knees ravaged by surgery and chronic arthritis, took down a game-high 24 rebounds, scored 19 points and intimidated Reed.

Wilt Stars
The Play of the Game came in the closing seconds when Chamberlain practically jammed a Reed layup down his throat. The shot would have tied the score.

"I have to give Chamberlain credit," said Reed. "He did a heck of a job rehabilitating himself after that operation on his knees earlier this year."

"I play with bad knees and I know what he's going through to play. It's a double effort to do it on those knees."

Chamberlain missed 70 games of the regular season after knee surgery, and admits the operation and the years are beginning to take their toll.

Coches Joe Mullane of Los Angeles admitted he needed a quick change of script after Friday night's loss.

What was the difference, coach?

Coches Comments
"Well, first it helps not getting so far behind," said Mullane, alluding to New York's 20-point first half advantage that had Los Angeles playing catch-up most of the night Friday.

"Both Wilt and Jerry (West) said they were tired after running after the Knicks Friday night."

"Tonight, I told Wilt to go to the basket more. You can stop the Knicks' fast break by putting the ball in the hole. And we also played a little defense."

While Reed scored 29 points, he had a poor 12-for-29 shooting mark from the field. This was mostly attributed to Chamberlain's imposing figure, a windmill in purple and gold shorts.

So Chamberlain did his defensive thing against the Knicks, and Jerry West delivered the knockout punch with a 34-point performance.

Finlan Makes Hole-In-One

GLADSTONE—Roger Finlan made the first hole-in-one of the season at the Gladstone Golf Club Monday, scoring the par 3, 100 yard fourth hole, and preceded that with an eagle-2 on the par 4, 452 yard third hole.

Finlan, playing with Steve Mitchell and Harold Kleiman, drove his ball over the green with a 3-iron and the ball hit a tree, bounced back on to the green and into the hole for the hole-in-one. He finished the afternoon with a score of 48.

Two Lions Caged Up By Uncle Sam

DETROIT (AP)—Two Detroit Lions, tight end Charlie Sanders and offensive tackle Jim Yarbrough, may miss nearly the entire National Football League exhibition schedule due to military obligations.

Both players are serving an Army Reserve commitment at Ft. Polk, La. and their orders, if they are required to complete the maximum six months active duty, could keep them in until Sept. 7.

Detroit's final exhibition game is Sept. 12 against the Bengals in Cincinnati. The Lions open their regular season Sept. 20 at Green Bay against the Packers.

It is possible, however, Sanders and Yarbrough could get out sooner.

"I'm hoping I'll get out no later than the middle of August," Sanders said over the telephone from Ft. Polk.

He said he weighs 230 pounds now, two pounds heavier than he weighed at the end of last season.

"There are 13 guys in the platoon overweight so the senior sergeant put me in charge of the fat man's squad," Sanders said.

"The marching is the only thing that keeps me going. Everybody else is so far out of shape I spend my time laughing at them."

Also at Ft. Polk are running backs Albie Taylor and Larry Watkins, plus defensive end Bob Bergum who was on the taxi squad last year. None are expected to be on active duty as long as Sanders and Yarbrough.

"Yarbrough and Taylor are at South Polk, about 10 miles away," Sanders said. "But I haven't seen either one since we left the reception center."

Northern Opens Football Drills

MARQUETTE—Spring football practice opened Monday at Northern Michigan University and head coach Rollie Dotsch says the emphasis will be on defense.

"Our object this spring is to find 11 young men dedicated to defense," says Dotsch.

This is a complete reversal of the situation a year ago when Dotsch and his staff rebuilt NMU's offensive line during spring drills.

"As far as I'm concerned, we have 11 defensive vacancies to fill," Dotsch emphasizes, "and we hope to have the unit that will do the job for us next fall ready by the end of spring practice."

Sixty-five candidates are expected to answer Monday's first call. The list includes 22 letter-winners from the 1969 squad that posted a 5-5 record, 16 freshman numerical winners from last fall and 27 non-lettermen, newcomers and general call hopefuls.

While defense is the primary concern this spring, Dotsch and his staff have some holes to fill on offense, particularly in the backfield. The Wildcats need replacements for record-setting quarterback Rich McCarthy and All-America half-

McDowell, Indians Whip Twins; Brewers Defeated

By The Associated Press
Sam McDowell was thinking about strikeouts, which explained some of his problems. But just what was John O'Donoghue thinking about?

Cleveland's McDowell fanned eight Twins moving past the 1,700 mark for his career and worked his way through numerous jams to beat Minnesota 5-1 Monday.

O'Donoghue, summoned from the Milwaukee bullpen after Washington had tied the score in the 10th inning, heaved Ed Stroud's attempted sacrifice into right field, allowing the winning run to score as the Senators rallied to beat the Brewers 6-5.

In the only other American League game played Monday, Boston topped Oakland 4-3.

1,703 Strikeouts
McDowell took over 32nd place on the all-time strikeout list, increasing his career total to 1,703 and moving past Curt Simmons, who had 1,697.

"I had strikeouts on my mind," said McDowell. "That's bad. When I try to strike them out, I get in trouble."

But McDowell's knockout pitch and, surprisingly, his bat, helped keep the trouble at a minimum. Sudden Sam's toughest jam came in the eighth when the first two Twins reached base. But he fanned Brant Alyea, Rich Reese and George Mitterwald in order to escape. McDowell also had two hits and scored twice for the Indians.

McDowell said his preoccupation with strikeouts hurt his effort. "You lose the purpose of what you're trying to do—throw certain pitches to certain batters to get them out the easiest way possible."

Senators Rally
The Senators tried to give O'Donoghue an out in the easiest way—a simple sacrifice by Stroud. Washington had rallied for the tying runs in the 10th inning on a bases-loaded single by Ed Brinkman and now Manager Ted Williams wanted to move the winning run over to third.

But O'Donoghue didn't take the give-away out. Conceding the successful sacrifice, the Brewers' reliever tried to get Stroud at first but heaved the ball into right field instead, allowing Jim French to score the winning run.

Washington starter Joe Coleman had nursed a 3-2 lead into the ninth and was working on a four-hitter until rookie Danny Walton tied the game with a lead-off homer in the ninth.

Slow Pitch
The Escanaba Slow Pitch Softball League will meet today at 8 p.m. at Lark's Bar meeting rooms. All players interested in playing and anyone interested in sponsoring a team are urged to attend.

Softball Practice
The Michigan Hotel softball team will practice tonight and Wednesday night at 6:30 at the Webster diamond.

Babe Ruth League Elects Officers
Roland Collins was reelected president of the Escanaba Babe Ruth League at a meeting of officers and managers last week. Others named to serve include Mike Utt as vice-president, Bob Jensen as secretary and Paul Vardigan as treasurer.

Registration of new players will begin May 11 and the first tryout is scheduled for May 23 at the Babe Ruth Field. After two weeks of practice official league play will open on June 6.

The following managers and assistants were approved at the meeting: Insurance Agents Association — Dean and Dick Lewis; Mead Paper — William Pfister and Lynn Collins; Escanaba Banks — Dennis Grall; Teamsters Local 328 — Danny Ritter and Phil Hiney; Kiwanis Club — Gordon Nevala; UAW-CIO Local 632 — Mike Utt.

GIRLS WANT SPORTS
NEW DELHI, India (AP)—The girl students of a Calcutta college have threatened to complain to Prime Minister Indira Gandhi if cricket and soccer are not introduced in their college. They say they got the inspiration after reading reports of women playing soccer in the United States.

Then Milwaukee took the lead an inning later when Ted Savage delivered a run-producing RBI double and came around himself on a stolen base and a wild pitch.

But the Senators bounced right back, loading the bases on two walks and a single before Brinkman's hit and O'Donoghue's error gave them the victory.

Reggie Smith capped a perfect day with an eighth inning homer giving the Red Sox their victory over Oakland.

Earlier Smith had tripled and scored on a wild pitch, walked and singled. His eighth inning shot against Catfish Hunter gave Vicente Romo a victory in his first start of the season.

Romo, unscored upon in four relief appearances, was tagged for solo homers by Frank Fernandez, Don Mincher and Rick Monday.

Crusaders Drop Tennis Match

The Holy Name Crusaders tennis team, coached by Gordy LeDuc, dropped their opening match of the season to Gwin 5-1 Monday afternoon.

Three singles and three doubles matches were played with Holy Name winning one singles match when Joe Joran defeated Calvin Marjomaki of Gwin 7-5, 0-6 and 6-3.

Results of the other matches were as follows:
Singles — Dick Maki (G) beat Dennis Lueneburg (HN) 6-6, 6-1; Gary Rautio (G) defeated John Walker (HN) 6-2, 6-0.

Doubles — Gordy Steen, Guy Chaput (G) over Mark Larche and Jim Juetten (HN) 7-5, 6-3; Mike Acres and Kent Aushburn (G) beat Dave Walker and John Alenger (HN) 6-1, 6-2; Bill Taccolini and Roger Filizetti (G) over Brain Laeche and Mike Dailey (HN) 6-1, 6-2.

The Crusaders will return to action today, hosting Menominee at the city courts at 3 p.m.

Penguins, Blues In Crucial Test

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Pittsburgh Coach Red Kelly regained his voice, his disposition and his optimism in the West Division Stanley Cup National Hockey League semifinals over the weekend.

Now the question is whether hockey's Pied Piper can produce enough charisma to block the St. Louis Blues' advance into the final round of the playoffs against East Division champion Boston beginning tonight at the Arena.

"I have an idea it's just about time," Kelly said following his team's 3-2 and 2-1 triumphs at home, squaring the best-of-7 Blues-Penguins set at two games each.

"We hadn't won at Oakland, either, until we got into the playoffs. We're due in St. Louis sooner or later, and it's got to come in the fifth or seventh game."

A revitalized offense featuring rookie Michel Briere offers Pittsburgh its best chance to break through in the series, which will continue through at least Thursday night in Pittsburgh.

Briere, a will o' the wisp, manufactured decisive goals in both Pittsburgh triumphs and assisted on two others, one each game.

"He's roaming around out there like he owns the place," noted opposing center Frank St. Marselle of the Blues, "but then again he's not the easiest guy to hit."

While Pittsburgh cannoned 51 shots Sunday, the Blues' production was trimmed to 24 by fierce Penguin checking.

Still, said Blues' Coach Scotty Bowman, "I think we have too many scorers for them to keep us out of the net much longer. I think we can rebound on home ice."

Bowman praised Ernie Wakely's goaltending in the 2-1 defeat but nominated 41-year-old Jacques Plante to return to the nets Tuesday night.

Plante's 3-2 loss to the Penguins in Pittsburgh was in his 104th cup game. Two nights earlier the veteran goalie had stopped the Penguins 4-1 in St. Louis.

Cubs Edge Pirates For 11th Straight

By The Associated Press
Joe Decker is a slow starter, but luckily for the Chicago Cubs Hank Aguirre and Phil Regan are fast finishers.

That triumvirate teamed up Monday night to pitch the Cubs to their 11th consecutive victory, a 1-0 squeaker over Pittsburgh. The last time the Cubs won 11 in a row was 1945, which just happens to be the last time they won the National League pennant.

If Monday night's game is any indication, Manager Leo Durocher has finally found his long-sought fourth starter.

His name is Joe Decker. Well, actually, his name is George Henry Decker, but as far back as he can remember—he'll be 23 on June 16—everyone's called him Joe, or Joey, and he doesn't know why.

And the Cubs don't much care, by George. Not after the way the 6-foot, 175-pound right-hander throttled the Pirates on six hits for 8 1/3 innings.

Decker left after Roberto Clemente's one-out triple in the ninth. Aguirre walked Bob Robertson, but Clemente was nailed in a rundown when Al Oliver tapped back to the mound. Regan then came on and got Jerry May to bounce into a game-ending force play.

Philadelphia edged Los Angeles 4-3 in the only other NL action. Montreal's scheduled game at San Diego was rained out.

Decker, who beat the Mets on the final day last season for his only other major league decision, is in his sixth year as a pro. But his development was slowed in 1966-67-68 when he attended Arizona State University and didn't play baseball until June.

He threw enough baseballs Monday night to impress Pittsburgh skipper Danny Murtaugh. "I liked him, I liked him," Murtaugh said. "He's got a fine arm, and also a good knowledge of the hitters. He couldn't make that many good pitches by accident."

The Cubs' run was unearned and came with two out in the third inning when Glenn Beckert tripled off Steve Blass and scored when catcher Manny Sanguillen let the relay get by him for an error.

Little League Slates Practice

With over 100 candidates for positions on rosters of the Escanaba Jaycee Little League teams already registered, final mop-up action will continue this week. Wednesday night at the Little League Field John Chylek will be in charge of the try-out beginning at 4 o'clock. Saturday morning all managers will be on hand for the final workout beginning at 9 o'clock at the Little League Field.

Boys in the ten, eleven and twelve year old group who want to play minor league ball are again reminded that they must attend a major league try-out to be eligible. League officials point out that this is a national ruling designed to protect the seven, eight and nine year old minor league players who make up the major part of the minor league rosters.

The annual player auction is scheduled for 6 o'clock Sunday, April 31 with Player Agent Paul Vardigan in charge. Managers are reminded to have their player rotation lists made out in advance.

Recreation Dept. Needs Uniforms
With the arrival of spring weather the annual search for baseball uniforms is on again, the recreation department announced today. Parents of boys who played in any of the three organized hardball programs are asked to check their basements or attics for baseball pants, shirts, and stockings which someone may have neglected to turn in to local officials. The most desperate need is for Babe Ruth League uniforms for boys 13, 14 and 15 years of age. These may be dropped off at the Catherine Bonifas Civic Center or at the home of Paul Vardigan, 1415 S. 16th Ave.

Still, said Blues' Coach Scotty Bowman, "I think we have too many scorers for them to keep us out of the net much longer. I think we can rebound on home ice."

Bowman praised Ernie Wakely's goaltending in the 2-1 defeat but nominated 41-year-old Jacques Plante to return to the nets Tuesday night.

Plante's 3-2 loss to the Penguins in Pittsburgh was in his 104th cup game. Two nights earlier the veteran goalie had stopped the Penguins 4-1 in St. Louis.

The Holy Name Crusaders tennis team, coached by Gordy LeDuc, dropped their opening match of the season to Gwin 5-1 Monday afternoon.

Three singles and three doubles matches were played with Holy Name winning one singles match when Joe Joran defeated Calvin Marjomaki of Gwin 7-5, 0-6 and 6-3.

Results of the other matches were as follows:

Singles — Dick Maki (G) beat Dennis Lueneburg (HN) 8-6, 6-1; Gary Rautio (G) defeated John Walker (HN) 6-2, 6-0.

Doubles — Gordy Steen, Guy Chaput (G) over Mark Larche and Jim Juetten (HN) 7-5, 6-3; Mike Acres and Kent Aushburn (G) beat Dave Walker and John Alchere (HN) 6-1, 6-2; Bill Tacolini and Roger Filizetti (G) over Brain Laeche and Mike Dailey (HN) 6-1, 6-2.

The Crusaders will return to action today, hosting Menominee at the city courts at 3 p.m.

Cubs Edge Pirates For 11th Straight

By The Associated Press

Joe Decker is a slow starter, but luckily for the Chicago Cubs Hank Aguirre and Phil Regan are fast finishers.

That triumvirate teamed up Monday night to pitch the Cubs to their 11th consecutive victory, a 1-0 squeaker over Pittsburgh. The last time the Cubs won 11 in a row was 1945, which just happens to be the last time they won the National League pennant.

If Monday night's game is any indication, Manager Leo Durocher has finally found his long-sought fourth starter.

His name is Joe Decker. Well, actually, his name is George Henry Decker, but as far back as he can remember—he'll be 23 on June 16—everyone's called him Joe, or Joey, and he doesn't know why.

And the Cubs don't much care, by George. Not after the way the 6-foot, 175-pound right-hander throttled the Pirates on six hits for 1-0 innings.

Decker left after Roberto Clemente's one-out triple in the ninth. Aguirre walked Bob Robertson, but Clemente was nailed in a rundown when Al Oliver tapped back to the mound. Regan then came on and got Jerry May to bounce into a game-ending force play.

Philadelphia edged Los Angeles 4-3 in the only other NL action. Montreal's scheduled game at San Diego was rained out.

Decker, who beat the Mets on the final day last season for his only other major league decision, is in his sixth year as a pro. But his development was slowed in 1966-67-68 when he attended Arizona State University and didn't play baseball until June.

He threw enough baseballs Monday night to impress Pittsburgh skipper Danny Murtaugh.

"I liked him, I liked him," Murtaugh said. "He's got a fine arm, and also a good knowledge of the hitters. He couldn't make that many good pitches by accident."

"The Cubs' run was unearned and came with two out in the third inning when Glenn Beckert tripled off Steve Blass and scored when catcher Manny Sanguillen let the relay get by him for an error."

Little League Slates Practice

With over 100 candidates for positions on rosters of the Escanaba Jaycee Little League teams already registered, final mop-up action will continue this week. Wednesday night at the Little League Field John Chylek will be in charge of the try-out beginning at 4 o'clock. Saturday morning all managers will be on hand for the final workout beginning at 9 o'clock at the Little League Field.

Boys in the ten, eleven and twelve year old group who want to play minor league ball are again reminded that they must attend a major league try-out to be eligible. League officials point out that this is a national ruling designed to protect the seven, eight and nine year old minor league players who make up the major part of the minor league rosters.

The annual palyer auction is scheduled for 6 o'clock Sunday, April 31 with Player Agent Paul Vardigan in charge. Managers are reminded to have their player rotation lists made out in advance.

Recreation Dept. Needs Uniforms

With the arrival of spring weather the annual search for baseball uniforms is on again, the recreation department announced today. Parents of boys who played in any of the three organized hardball programs are asked to check their basements or attics for baseball pants, shirts, and stockings which someone may have neglected to turn in to local officials. The most desperate need is for Babe Ruth League uniforms for boys 13, 14 and 15 years of age. These may be dropped off at the Catherine Bonifas Civic Center or at the home of Paul Vardigan, 1415 S. 16th Ave.

Baseball Contest Planned For Boys

Boys, ages nine through 12, can register at George O'Connell's 66 Service, 1629 Ludington St., or at Hanks 66 South Side Service, 901 S. Lincoln Road. The contest is free, but a parent must accompany each boy. Each boy will get a copy of official rules, a tip booklet when signing up and a participant's patch at the competition site. Winners at the various levels will receive patches, plaques and warm-up jackets.

The Phillips Petroleum Co. and Major League Baseball have combined to co-sponsor the Major League Pitch, Hit and Throw contest. This contest is similar to the punt, pass and kick and a boy can end up in the finals at the Major League All-Star game.

The Escanaba area jaycees will host the local event with Joe Heller in charge of the program. The competition is tentatively planned either May 16 or May 17.

Three Categories
Each entrant will compete on an individual basis in the three categories.

In pitching, a boy will receive 25 points for each ball pitched into a pitching target from a distance of 46 feet. Five pitches are allowed.

Entrants also will be awarded one point for each foot of distance that a ball is hit in fair territory on the fly. He can take the longest hit of five for the best score by throwing the ball in the air and hitting it.

The third and last event is the throwing for distance down the base line. A boy will receive one point for each foot of distance, minus one point for each foot from the foul line. In case of ties, tie-breaking rounds will be held.

All bats and balls will be official Little League size and weight and will be provided at the competition site. No baseball shoes will be allowed and tennis shoes are recommended.

Four Contest Levels

There will be four levels of competition — local, district, division and national, said William F. Newton, Iron Mountain, Phillips 66 distributor.

The local competition will be held in two stages. The first stage is planned locally and the second stage with winners from Manistique, Powers, Spaulding Area, Escanaba, and Iron Mountain will be held at Iron Mountain on May 23.

Winners will advance to district events at 56 locations across the country. Each of these winners will be entitled to wear a junior-size baseball uniform of the major league team in their home area.

All-Star Finals

District winners will travel with a parent and sponsor to a major league ball game for division competition. They will attend a banquet and compete the following day. Division winners will fly to the Major League All-Star game on July 14 for the national competition. After the game, finalists, parents and sponsors will travel to Cooperstown, N.Y., for a tour of the Baseball Hall Of Fame.

Mary Jo Inquest Papers Due For Public Viewing

BOSTON (AP) — The transcript of testimony and the judge's report in the Mary Jo Kopechne inquest will be made public at 3 p.m. EDT Wednesday.

Miss Kopechne, 28, drowned last July when a car driven by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy went off a narrow bridge on Chappaquiddick Island and landed in a tidal pond.

Chief Justice G. Joseph Tauro of Massachusetts Superior Court stepped into the case Monday and ordered the papers to be released, rejecting the claim of a professional court stenographer that he alone had a right to make copies of the documents and sell them.

Justice Tauro cited two orders of the state Supreme Court, on April 9 and again last week, which denied stenographer Sidney R. Lipman's claim that he had ownership rights. His firm recorded the January inquest.

Tauro also cited the finding of the state Supreme Court that it could not find any basis for the federal courts to assume jurisdiction over release of the papers.

Tauro said the original copies of the transcript and report would become public records, and that copies, made at the expense of the news service—$75 per copy—would be distributed to them by the court as a public service.

MANISTIQUE Arson Suspected In Rash Of Grass Fires

Arson is suspected in the rash of grass fires in the Manistique area Sunday which kept the U.S. Forest Service, the Department of Natural Resources, Michigan State Police and township volunteers busy. There were 25 reported fires. George Young, DNR Area Fire Supervisor, said his agency fought 15 separate fires in the high-rollaways section of Manistique Township. Fifty-one acres were burned including 40 acres of pine plantings.

State fire officers from Seney and Shingleton assisted with tractors and plows to curb the spread.

The U.S. Forest Service reported nine fires in the Steuben area including four along the Indian River Truck Trail (near the eight-mile cut-across to the Thunder Lake Rd.), two in the East Lake area, one along Mule Shoe Lake, one by the Big Ditch Creek and a ninth north of Cooks.

The fires were detected by aircraft patrolling the area. The first fire was reported shortly before noon and the fire fighters worked past 10 p.m. Sunday before bringing all the

School Redistricting Program Slowed Down

LANSING (AP) — The Michigan House apparently has decided that election-year 1970 is not the time to adopt Gov. William G. Milliken's proposed shake-up of local school districts.

After desultory discussion Monday night the House tentatively adopted a substitute bill that calls for appointment of a seven-member state committee of school reorganization to recommend a plan to the Legislature by Feb. 1, 1971.

K-8 Districts Affected Only K-8 school districts would face a target reorganization date of July 1, 1972, under the bill. All other action would be left to review by the Legislature.

Under Milliken's original bill, a reorganization committee was to be given authority to have sweeping consolidation of the state's more than 600 local school districts under way by July of next year.

House Speaker William A. Ryan, an advocate of extensive reorganization, called the measure "a nice, weak bill."

Introduced By Smart The latest substitute was introduced by Reps. Clifford Smart, R-Walled Lake, ranking minority member of the House Education Committee, and William L. Jowett, R-Port Huron, another committee member.

Under their bill, some 112 obsolete school districts with only kindergarten - through - eighth-grade classes would face reorganization. By July 1, 1971 if voters of the district involved approve annexation to another district; by Sept. 30, 1971, or July 1, 1972 in some cases, if they do not.

Plan Not Desirable Smart, explaining the revised substitute, said it was the "consensus of the Legislature" that compulsory reorganization is not desirable.

Criteria to be used in mapping a reorganization scheme would include: "The potential to offer at least a minimum comprehensive program of general and college preparatory education."

No Excessive Size "Potential to participate effectively in programs of compensatory and special and occupational education and to permit reasonable efficiency of operation."

A local district could "not be

Miserly Woman Wills $250,000 To Negro School

DETROIT (AP) — An 84-year-old white woman — described by a former roommate as too miserly to pay $125 for needed glasses — has left almost $250,000 to the United Negro College Fund.

The donor, Mrs. Regina M. Peffy, died last Jan. 4 in her small rented rooms on Detroit's southwest side. Her will was admitted to probate Monday.

Mrs. Cressy Wilson, 60, a former roommate, said Mrs. Peffy had planned to give her money to the fund because "she said the Negroes had always been mistreated."

Acquaintances, however, were stunned to realize the woman's wealth. UNCF officials said they didn't know of the woman's existence until after her death.

Her stockbroker, Richard Cleary, a vice president of Bache & Co., said she made the money by playing "with those little, cheap speculative stocks and she frequently bought and sold."

It was the largest bequest for UNCF in Michigan history. Funds are used to help students at 36 predominantly Negro colleges in the South.

A clue to Mrs. Peffy's interest was found among papers in her two-room apartment. It was a 15-year-old newspaper clipping mentioning the fund and the fact that Wade McCree, who since has become a federal judge, was UNCF co-chairman in Michigan.

In her will, Mrs. Peffy directed that Judge McCree become the fiscal agent for the estate. The will said after debts are paid, which are minor, all assets will go to the fund.

Although Mrs. Peffy was once married and divorced, there were no known living relatives. No one showed up at the probate hearing to contest the will.

The judge said Mrs. Peffy was childless.

Mrs. Wilson said that despite being half blind from cataracts that Mrs. Peffy "threw a fit" when told she would have to pay $125 for new glasses. Mrs. Wilson said the woman never bought them.

Mrs. Wilson, who said she lived for seven years with Mrs. Peffy, also said the woman constantly insisted on buying bargains such as beans for a dime and the cheapest type of hamburger.

Two Policemen Off Force; Boy Hit By Bullet

HIGHLAND PARK (AP) — Two policemen in Highland Park have been suspended pending an investigation into the death of a nine-year-old boy, who was shot while waiting with his mother to catch a bus.

The boy, Danny Smith, was shot Saturday night while police were chasing suspected auto thieves. The names of suspended policemen were not released.

Police Chief Donald Meade said Monday that pursuing police had fired shots at the fleeing men, but he said he doubted that the boy had been hit by a policeman's bullet.

Meade said the youth, a fourth grader at Courtland Elementary School, was standing to the southwest and that police fired toward the southeast. He said, however, the bullet could have ricocheted.

The boy's mother, Mrs. Margaret Smith, said she was not certain, but she did not believe any of the two youths being chased returned the fire.

Police said the officers used their car to ram the suspected stolen car. Police said they then pursued the two occupants on foot, first firing warning shots, and then shooting to wound.

The mother said a woman ran by her saying "Someone's shooting — shooting."

Miserly Woman Wills $250,000 To Negro School

DETROIT (AP) — An 84-year-old white woman — described by a former roommate as too miserly to pay $125 for needed glasses—has left almost $250,000 to the United Negro College Fund.

The donor, Mrs. Regina M. Peffy, died last Jan. 4 in her small rented rooms on Detroit's southwest side. Her will was admitted to probate Monday.

Mrs. Cressey Wilson, 60, a former roommate, said Mrs. Peffy had planned to give her money to the fund because "she said the (Negroes) had always been mistreated."

Acquaintances, however, were stunned to realize the woman's wealth. UNCF officials said they didn't know of the woman's existence until after her death.

Her stockbroker, Richard Cleary, a vice president of Bache & Co., said she made the money by playing "with those little, cheap speculative stocks and she frequently bought and sold."

It was the largest bequest for UNCF in Michigan history. Funds are used to help students at 36 predominantly Negro colleges in the South.

A clue to Mrs. Peffy's interest was found among papers in her two - room apartment. It was a 15-year-old newspaper clipping mentioning the fund and the fact that Wade McCree, who since has become a federal judge, was UNCF co-chairman in Michigan.

In her will, Mrs. Peffy directed that Judge McCree become the fiscal agent for the estate. The will said after debts are paid, which are minor, all assets will go to the fund.

Although Mrs. Peffy was once married and divorced, there were no known living relatives. No one showed up at the probate hearing to contest the will. The judge said Mrs. Peffy was childless.

Mrs. Wilson said that despite being half blind from cataracts that Mrs. Peffy "threw a fit" when told she would have to pay $125 for new glasses. Mrs. Wilson said the woman never bought them.

Mrs. Wilson, who said she lived for seven years with Mrs. Peffy, also said the woman constantly insisted on buying bargains such as beans for a dime and the cheapest type of hamburger.

Two Policemen Off Force; Boy Hit By Bullet

HIGHLAND PARK (AP)—Two policemen in Highland Park have been suspended pending an investigation into the death of a nine-year-old boy, who was shot while waiting with his mother to catch a bus.

The boy, Danny Smith, was shot Saturday night while police were chasing suspected auto thieves. The names of suspended policemen were not released.

Police Chief Donald Meade said Monday that pursuing police had fired shots at the fleeing men, but he said he doubted that the boy had been hit by a policeman's bullet.

Meade said the youth, a fourth grader at Courtland Elementary School, was standing to the southwest and that police fired toward the southeast. He said, however the bullet could have ricocheted.

The boy's mother, Mrs. Margaret Smith, said she was not certain, but she did not believe any of the two youths being chased returned the fire.

Police said the officers used their car to ram the suspected stolen car. Police said they then pursued the two occupants on foot, first firing warning shots and then shooting to wound.

The mother said a woman ran by her saying "Someone's shooting—shooting."

Mrs. Smith said she then looked at her son and "he was on the ground. He just looked at me and said, 'Mama, I've been shot.'"

The boy was pronounced dead when he arrived at a local hospital. The bullet was taken to a State Police Crime Laboratory to find out if it was fired from a police gun.

Police said they later took into custody Gregory Dowdell, 17, who suffered a gunshot wound. He was reported in fair condition. Police said they were seeking another youth.

GOP Candidate 'Guns' For Kelley, Milliken

LANSING (AP) — James C. Turner, Howell publisher of "Today" magazine and a Republican candidate for governor, has hinted he may go to court to try to force Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley to disclose information about recent grand jury probes.

Turner, in announcing his candidacy last Wednesday, said he would make "shocking and awesome revelations" on May 7 about the "whole affair of (Kelley) and the office of Governor Milliken."

In a letter to Kelley Monday, Turner asked for details of Kelley's appointment of assistants since becoming attorney general himself in December, 1961.

Turner charged that assistant Atty. Gen. Robert Goussey failed to forward such information Friday as promised earlier in the week.

Goussey heads the criminal law division in Kelley's office.

"In particular we were interested in the Pratt, Thorburn, Piggins and Bowles Grand Jurors," Turner said in his letter to Kelley.

Turner added, "I want to obtain a list of every investigation and prosecution assigned to George B. Murphy." Murphy is an assistant attorney general in the office's Detroit division for highway matters.

The letter to Kelley asked for the information by Thursday.

"Otherwise, I will regretfully have to seek appropriate legal relief in behalf of the people of Michigan," Turner wrote.

Reached in his Howell office, Turner said he would file a petition in Ingham County Circuit Court for an injunction to prevent Kelley's office from continuing routine affairs until the information is supplied.

"I've got to the point where I don't give a damn who I offend," Turner said. "I don't want to sound like a nut but I

No Panic Selling As Market Dips

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market continued its downward plunge early today in moderately active trading.

The Dow Jones average of 30 Industrials at 10:30 a.m. was down 2.97 at 732.18.

Declines outnumbered advances by about 2 to 1.

The stock market Monday, suffered a severe setback, with the Dow Jones average of 30 Industrials plunging to its lowest level since President Kennedy was assassinated Nov. 22, 1963, when the average closed at 711.49. The Dow average closed down 12.14 at 735.15 Monday.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was off 4.6 at 258.3.

Volume was relatively light, with 10.25 million shares passing hands. Analysts called this a good sign, indicating that Monday's plunge did not signal any wholesale panic selling.

The decline was once again attributed to continued investor pessimism over inflation, the Southeast Asian situation and poor first quarter earnings reports.

Cub Pack 414 Stages Circus

St. Patrick's Church Parish Hall was turned into a "Big Top" Monday evening as Pack 414 staged the "Cub Scout Circus."

The Hobo Band members of den 1 began the performance with a lively number and the Lions of den 5 were on their best behavior as the lion tamer put his hand in their mouth.

Den 4's Indians did the dance, "Little Bear," which depicted how an Indian boy is made a brave and warrior of the tribe. The boys had made their colorful costumes of vests, beads, bells, rattlers and headpieces.

The Webelos den showed feats of magic with rope tricks and den 2 members entertained with variety acts including, strong man, bearded lady, dancing horse, elephant and clown acts. The program was concluded by a colorful bull fight, with so blood shed, staged by den 3.

Receiving their Webelos awards were Kenneth Schaut and Bruce LaVigne. They were presented their Troop 414 neckerchiefs by Senior Patrol Leader Dwayne Willyard.

Others receiving awards were Ricky Courter, Duane Beauchamp, Paul Gayan, Stephen Savard, Daniel and Dale McNamee, Dennis Dupey and Kevin Corrigan.

Pack 414 will hold a summer program including kite flying, fishing and a picnic. Dates for these events will be announced later. Cub Pack 414 is sponsored by Amvets Post 123 and Russell H. Willyard is cubmaster. Den leaders are Robert LaVigne, Graham McNamee and Richard Nelson. Mrs. Roger Beauchamp, Mrs. Jack Savard, Mrs. Gerald Carigan and Mrs. Richard Nelson are den mothers and Mrs. Russell H. Willyard is den leader coach.

Guard Policy, Activities To Determine Armory Use

MANISTIQUE — The city cannot guarantee any community use of the new armory since National Guard activities and policies probably will determine availability, the City Council told the recreation department Monday night.

However, Council said it would explore the possibility of armory locker room and rest rooms used in connection with recreational activities once the Central Park area is developed.

The city also will keep in mind the need for an east end access to the Little League baseball field, the "learning" ski hill and the oval snowmobile track when deciding the property for armory construction.

Three members of the recreation department — Dick Bonifas, Denton Nelson and Bill Howe — were at the meeting to discuss possible use of the armory since the new armory site is in an area originally designated for recreational development. The land is behind the low-income family housing project off N. Maple St. and was earmarked for development as a bath house.

Suitable Property It is not included in the joint application for state recreational development funds filed recently by the city and the school district.

The five-acre site is the only city-owned property suitable for armory needs, council said. National Guard officials have inspected the land and requested that soil tests be made.

The new location was chosen last week after soil tests on lake shore property revealed a high water table and below grade land.

In a discussion of Michigan Week plans, City Manager Robert Noe reported that the mayor and two councilmen from Walled Lake, a lower Michigan city near Pontiac, have indicated they will be in Manistique May 18 for Government Day. The visitors will tour the city, visit industry and be guests at a luncheon and dinner in their honor. Mayor Douglas Rose will be in Walled Lake for the Mayoral Exchange.

Council again will host student counterparts with a mock council session planned for the afternoon of May 12.

Resignation Accepted Councilman Thor Reque suggested that the city consider honoring some of their appointive committees and other persons who have worked on city projects during Government Day activities.

Council accepted, with regret, the resignation of Councilman William Wedegartner, effective May 1, and offered a resolution of appreciation, for Wedegartner's two years service to the community. His last official council appearance will be at Thursday's special budget session.

In other business, Noe reported that the city will begin flushing hydrants to expel sediment within the next month. The work will be done late at night or in the early morning hours, he said.

Council also approved advertising land for sale on Michigan Ave., located between Cattaraugus and Saginaw Streets, and readvertising the former Public Safety Dept. building on 5th St. Reque reported a recent Central Upper Peninsula Economic Development District meeting in Marquette and reviewed legislation in a Michigan Municipal League report.

Federal Court Ruled Out For Rap Brown Case

BALTIMORE (AP) — The 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals has rejected the contention that H. Rap Brown's trial on arson and riot charges should be held in federal court.

The three-judge panel ruled Monday there was no evidence that the black militant's civil rights would be jeopardized by his scheduled trial in the Howard County state court.

William M. Kunstler, chief defense counsel, said he would appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court if necessary. A previous appeal for a change of venue was denied by the high court on Jan. 12.

Howard County Judge James Macgill may announce today when the trial will be resumed.

Brown has been missing from all the state court sessions so far and Kunstler has said that he does not know where his client is. The defendant is free on $10,000 bail.

Stokes Backing Water Pollution Funding Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mayor Carl Stokes of Cleveland, speaking for the nation's mayors, told a Senate water pollution panel today no less than $25 billion must be spent on treatment facilities needed to clean the nation's dirty waters.

Stokes endorsed the money goal proposed by Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, who called the Nixon administration's $10 billion proposal insufficient to do the job. Only $4 billion under the administration's plan would come from federal funds.

Another witness in the continuing hearings before Muskie's air and water pollution subcommittee said Congress must first assure states that have already spent $322 million for water treatment plants that they will be reimbursed by the federal government.

The witness, Sen. Charles Mc Mathias, R-Md., said the money has been spent by 18 states since 1966 to build waste treatment plants.

Students Talk About Canada

This is Canada-United States "Good Will" Week, and the International Relations committee of the Escanaba Kiwanis Club had a program which was designed for the celebration.

In the Escanaba Area High School government education program is a group called the Independent Study Seminar Classes taught by Mrs. Elnora Vaden. One year of government education is a requirement for graduation, and these study groups get the students more involved than the regular classes do.

The Canada - United States "Good Will" week began in 1922 under sponsorship of Kiwanis International. It was celebrated every two years until 1939 when it became an annual event. There are now 35 plaques erected along the U.S.-Canadian border which highlight the years of good will between the two countries and typify the undefended border which exists between the two nations.

The program which was presented through the ISS class was sponsored by the local Kiwanians. In it, four students from the Escanaba Area High School group were sent to Canada to work with the Canadians in the Canadian-American Relations Seminar. The group included Margaret Mosenfelter, Nancy Schmitt, David Moran and John Pratt.

In Monday's program, each student stressed a different phase of the seminar entitled "Canadian - American Relations - Trouble Ahead." Following their comments, questions were asked from the Kiwanians.

Luther Barrett, chairman of the International Relations committee of Kiwanis, also read a letter of thanks from the group.

Guard Policy, Activities To Determine Armory Use

MANISTIQUE — The city cannot guarantee any community use of the new armory since National Guard activities and policies probably will determine availability, the City Council told the recreation department Monday night.

However, Council said it would explore the possibility of armory locker room and rest rooms used in connection with recreational activities once the Central Park area is developed.

The city also will keep in mind the need for an east end access to the Little League baseball field, the "learning" ski hill and the oval snowmobile track when deeding the property for armory construction.

Three members of the recreation department — Dick Bonifas, Denton Nelson and Bill Howe — were at the meeting to discuss possible use of the armory since the new armory site is in an area originally designated for recreational development. The land is behind the low-income family housing project off N. Maple St. and was earmarked for development as a bath house.

Suitable Property

It is not included in the joint application for state recreational development funds filed recently by the city and the school district.

The five-acre site is the only city-owned property suitable for armory needs, council said. National Guard officials have inspected the land and requested that soil tests be made.

The new location was chosen last week after soil tests on lake shore property revealed a high water table and below grade land.

In a discussion of Michigan Week plans, City Manager Robert Noe reported that the mayor and two councilmen from Walled Lake, a lower Michigan city near Pontiac, have indicated they will be in Manistique May 18 for Government Day. The visitors will tour the city, visit industry and be guests at a luncheon and dinner in their honor. Mayor Douglas Rose will be in Walled Lake for the Mayoral Exchange.

Council again will host student counterparts with a mock council session planned for the afternoon of May 18.

Resignation Accepted

Councilman Thor Reque suggested that the city consider honoring some of their appointive committees and other persons who have worked on city projects during Government Day activities.

Council accepted, with regret, the resignation of Councilman William Wedegartner, effective May 1, and offered a resolution of appreciation, for Wedegartner's two years service to the community. His last official council appearance will be at Thursday's special budget session.

In other business, Noe reported that the city will begin flushing hydrants to expel sediment within the next month. The work will be done late at night or in the early morning hours, he said.

Council also approved advertising land for sale on Michigan Ave., located between Cattaraugus and Saginaw Streets, and readvertising the former Public Safety Dept. building on 5th St. Reque reported a recent Central Upper Peninsula Economic Development District meeting in Marquette and reviewed legislation in a Michigan Municipal League report.

Federal Court Ruled Out For Rap Brown Case

BALTIMORE (AP) — The 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals has rejected the contention that H. Rap Brown's trial on arson and riot charges should be held in federal court.

The three-judge panel ruled Monday there was no evidence that the black militant's civil rights would be jeopardized by his scheduled trial in the Howard County state court.

William M. Kunstler, chief defense counsel, said he would appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court if necessary. A previous appeal for a change of venue was denied by the high court on Jan. 12.

Howard County Judge James Macgill may announce today when the trial will be resumed.

Brown has been missing from all the state court sessions so far and Kunstler has said that he does not know where his client is. The defendant is free on $10,000 bail.

Stokes Backing Water Pollution Funding Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mayor Carl Stokes of Cleveland, speaking for the nation's mayors, told a Senate water pollution panel today no less than $25 billion must be spent on treatment facilities needed to clean the nation's dirty waters.

Stokes endorsed the money goal proposed by Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, who called the Nixon administration's $10 billion proposal insufficient to do the job. Only $4 billion under the administration's plan would come from federal funds.

Another witness in the continuing hearings before Muskie's air and water pollution subcommittee said Congress must first assure states that have already spent $322 million for water treatment plants that they will be reimbursed by the federal government.

The witness, Sen. Charles Mc Mathias, R-Md., said the money has been spent by 18 states since 1966 to build waste treatment plants.
